Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I am on disability and can not afford to pay high phone bills and so I use a prepaid cell phone for emergencies while in my vehicle or away from home. Also, due to long distance companies charging so much and then it takes more than an act of congress to be reimbursed for errors or charges I didnot make, I use a phone card. Limited incomes like myself can't afford any other way and now you want to hurt me even more financially. I say,"NO" stop this before it gets thru.

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee.

Keep the USF Fair!

Sincerely,

CARLA OGDEN
